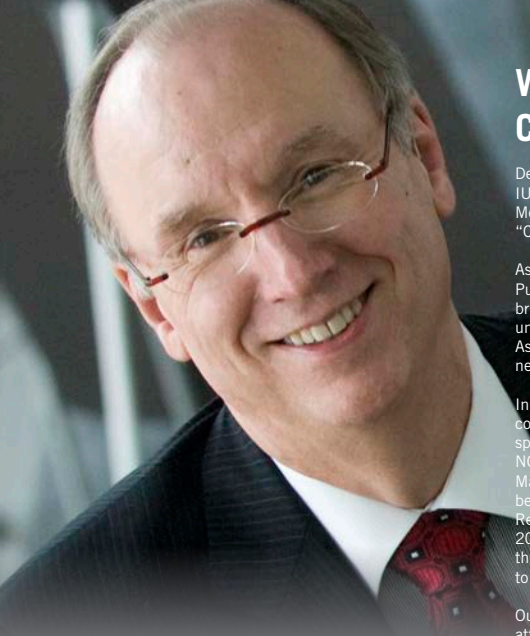
CREATING TOMORROW'S FUTURE TODAY

17th Annual Conference
October 9-11, 2011

University Place Conference Center and Hotel
Indianapolis, Indiana



WELCOME TO THE CUMU CONFERENCE

Dear Colleagues:
IUPUI is honored to host the 17th Annual Coalition of Urban and Metropolitan Universities Conference Thank you for joining us for "Creating Tomorrow's Future Today."

As a place with a unique history, IUPUI (Indiana University–Purdue University Indianapolis) was established in 1969 to bring together the academic programs of the state's two major universities in the state's capital and largest population center. As the mayor of Indianapolis said at the time, "A great city needs a great university at its heart."

In keeping with that charge, IUPUI has continued to work with community stakeholders to establish Indianapolis as an amateur sports capital, which made it an attractive place for the new NCAA Headquarters. During the conference, NCAA President Mark Emmert will speak, and the Monday networking dinner will be held at the NCAA Hall of Champions, adjacent to the campus. Representatives of the planning committee for Super Bowl 2012, which will be held in Indianapolis, will also be a part of the conference as they discuss the citywide coalition that formed to present the winning Super Bowl bid.

Our dynamic and vibrant city has also received national attention with its award-winning "Indianapolis Cultural Trail: A Legacy of Gene & Marilyn Glick," part of which runs through campus. Valerie Eickmeier, dean of the Herron School of Art and Design at IUPUI, will lead a walking tour of IUPUI's public art installations. Conference attendees will also have an opportunity to tour the rest of the world-class urban bike and pedestrian path, which connects neighborhoods, cultural districts, and entertainment amenities, even as it serves as the downtown hub for the entire central Indiana greenway system.

Other campus/community partnerships will be featured as Bob Bringle, director of the Center for Service and Learning at IUPUI, leads a bus tour of two of IUPUI's key civic partnerships with neighborhoods on the near west side and the near east side of campus, including the Super Bowl Legacy Center.

We hope you enjoy the conference and your stay in Indianapolis!

Charles R. Bantz
Chancellor of IUPUI

ABOUT IUPUI

Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI) is an urban-energized research campus serving more than 30,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students in programs that are helping to grow Indiana's economy and to improve its quality of life. It has a health and life sciences focus, with medical, dental, and nursing schools, and a school of health and rehabilitation. A school of public health is also being established.

In 2011, IUPUI was ranked 3rd by U.S. News and World Report in "Up-and-Coming National Universities," and recognized yet again for programs in service learning, first-year experiences, and learning communities.

In 1969, IUPUI was formed as a partnership between Indiana University and Purdue University, an effort to bring together all of the Indiana University and Purdue University programs existing in Indianapolis. The campus awards degrees from both Purdue University and Indiana University.

IUPUI has truly come into its own, becoming what then-Indianapolis Mayor Richard Lugar called for, "a great state university in Indianapolis."

ABOUT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis is the country's 13th largest city, large enough to play host to the Indianapolis 500 (the largest single-day sporting event in the world), the 2012 Super Bowl, the world's largest children's museum, the Heartland Film Festival, Black Expo, and Indy Jazz Fest. And Indy is small enough to personify small-town charm, with flavorful cultural districts, and a strong sense of community.

IUPUI is in the heart of it all, located just two blocks from the Indiana State Capitol and adjacent to White River State Park (home of the State Museum and Indianapolis Zoo) and the Indiana Avenue cultural district.
