October 27-29, 2013
Hosted by the University of Louisville
The Galt House
Dear Colleagues:

The University of Louisville is proud to host the 19th annual conference of the Coalition of Urban and Metropolitan Universities. This conference gives us a chance to showcase some of our nationally acclaimed university/community partnerships while also learning about the exemplary programs at other CUMU institutions.

The University of Louisville has experienced extraordinary achievements over the past 12 years. There has been a substantial jump in graduation rates and degrees awarded, the number of patents awarded and business start-ups from university research and the number of students living on campus. At the heart of these accomplishments is a robust university undergirded by strong community partnerships.

You’ll also find Louisville to be a warm, friendly and engaging city with plenty to see and do. In fact, the conference hotel, the Galt House, is within walking distance of many casual and fine dining opportunities, as well as various shopping and entertainment options at 4th Street Live! The world famous Louisville Slugger Museum, Muhammad Ali Center, Frazier History Museum and Kentucky Science Center are less than four blocks away and the Kentucky Derby Museum is just a few miles from downtown at historic Churchill Downs which will be hosting its annual fall meet during the conference.

So this conference provides an exciting opportunity to learn about transformative university/community partnerships from around the country, visit nationally acclaimed university/community partnerships and enjoy a wonderful metropolitan city with countless attractions!

I hope you enjoy the conference and don’t be a stranger! Come visit us at the University of Louisville.

Sincerely,

James R. Ramsey

Greetings:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 19th annual Convention of the Coalition of Urban and Metropolitan Universities. Universities are an important part of metro economies. They not only educate future leaders, they also create jobs and foster innovation. Universities add to the cultural life of the city and create excitement – especially in a sports-minded city like Louisville!

Like the majority of Louisvillians, I see the University of Louisville – the CUMU’s host institution – as a key player in realizing a brighter future for our city. That future includes improving the education and training of our workforce, attracting and growing high-paying, knowledge-based jobs and creating a vibrant sense of place.

UofL is a major force in 55,000 Degrees, Louisville’s public-private partnership aimed at creating 55,000 new college degrees by 2020. Achieving this goal could be transformative, pushing Louisville into the top tier in educational attainment among its competitor cities. UofL’s achievements in research over the past decade are viewed as leading-edge and its growth in the area of health and health care are seen as unique opportunities for sustaining the economic vitality of the community – and the University.

We are honored to host this event. Our city will roll out the red carpet and make you feel at home. You will find that we are a friendly and vibrant city offering top-notch facilities, one-of-a-kind attractions, great food and lots of places to have fun.

Best wishes for a great stay in Louisville and an exciting and enjoyable convention. Please return again.

Sincerely,

Greg Fischer, Mayor

Dear Colleagues:

I am thrilled to welcome you to the 19th annual conference of the Coalition of Urban and Metropolitan Universities. We extend our sincere thanks to Dr. Jim Ramsey and our colleagues at the University of Louisville for organizing a fantastic agenda and conference.

Over 200 paper, poster and roundtable presentations were submitted for consideration this year—a Coalition record! Joining you this week are 300+ colleagues from around the globe. We know you will discover new ways for creating and growing partnerships to improve your home institution and community. It’s our hope you will take advantage of the diversity and breadth of experiences represented at this year’s meeting and keep the conversations going when you return home.

In 1990 we held our first conference at Wright State University. At that meeting, our founders drafted the Declaration of Metropolitan Universities where they stated their collective commitment to “share the power of our institutions in education, research and service to positively impact the communities in which we are located.” This is a pivotal moment in the organization’s history as we reinforce that founding mission by focusing on our four pillars for sustainable prosperity: K-12 Education, Healthy Communities, Economic Revitalization and Social and Community Development. In the coming year we will continue to grow our membership and increase programmatic offerings that create new opportunities for you and our member institutions.

As we roll out these new offerings we hope you will get involved and join the conversation. Stay connected to us by visiting our website at www.cumuonline.org and following us on Twitter @MetropolitanU.

Sincerely,

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY

It’s a great time to be a Louisville Cardinal.

Our three campuses—the park-like Belknap Campus near Churchill Downs, the Health Sciences Center downtown and the Shelby Campus in Louisville’s East End – form one of America’s most dynamic and fastest-growing research universities. More than 22,000 students study in more than 170 fields at 11 colleges and schools. UofL is making its mark in areas ranging from medicine to the arts and sciences. We’re home to the world’s first emergency room/trauma center, the world’s first artificial heart implant and the world’s first successful hand transplant. Our Cardinal Singers have been ranked as the top choral group in the world. And a group of our business students last year captured the “Super Bowl of Business Competitions,” earning nearly $1 million for their start-up company.

UofL’s commitment to our community and our state are recognized worldwide. Our Signature Partnership, which takes the talents of UofL faculty, staff and students off campus and into the community, is helping bring educational, health, social and business opportunity to one of the city’s financially struggling neighborhoods.

Through development of the Nucleus Innovation and Technology center, UofL is sparking economic development in downtown Louisville. A second research park, adjacent to the Belknap Campus, is beginning to take shape.

The efforts in the classroom and the lab are drawing national attention. UofL has been ranked as one of the fastest-growing research universities in the nation based on NIH funding, as one of America’s best neighbors, as a military friendly school and as a Sierra Club “cool school.”

And then there is Athletics. UofL boasts one of America’s hottest athletic programs. In the past year, UofL has won the Sugar Bowl in football and the men’s NCAA national basketball championship. The women’s basketball team finished as national runner-up. Swimmer Joao De Lucca won the NCAA title in the 200-meter freestyle event. UofL finished in the Sweet Sixteen or higher in several other sports including volleyball, soccer and swimming.

But not all the stars are on the field. UofL students continue to claim many national and international honors. The university is among the nation’s top producers of prestigious Fulbright scholars, securing more student Fulbrights than all other Kentucky schools combined. UofL students also recently captured Boren, Goldwater and Rhodes scholarships.

THE CITY OF LOUISVILLE

You’ve probably heard of a little horse race called the Kentucky Derby. But there’s more to Louisville than just “the greatest two minutes in sports.” Nestled on the banks of the Ohio River, Louisville is home to some of the nation’s best dining, shopping, museums, parks and attractions. Lonely Planet named Louisville the “Top U.S. Travel Destination for 2013.” The U.S. Conference of Mayors named us the “Most Livable City in America.” Zagat’s named us one of the “Best Foodie Getaways Around the World” in 2012.

So what is it that sets us apart? Well, here are a few highlights – most within easy walking distance of the conference hotel:

Museums Galore
Louisville’s museum row has something for everyone. Swing at a 90-mile-per-hour fastball at the Louisville Slugger Museum and Factory. Shadow box with the Greatest of All Time at the Muhammad Ali Center. View exceptional jewels, fine furnishings and works of art through the “Eye of Napoleon” at the Frazier History Museum. Sample some of the Bluegrass State’s finest art at the Kentucky Museum of Art and Craft. Or check out the Kentucky Science Center, Glassworks and the KentuckyShow! Feeling adventurous? Then 21C Hotel and Museum is a must-see. Just look for the giant red penguins looking out over Main Street.

Bring Your Appetite
Zagat’s isn’t the only publication to love our restaurants. Rated one of America’s best dining destinations by many publications, Louisville is a foodies’ paradise. Within a couple of blocks of the hotel are too many restaurants to mention. Some of the most popular are four-star, fine dining establishments like Vincenzo’s and Proof on Main, as well as cool hangouts like Impellizeri’s Pizza, Patrick O’Shea’s, Doc Crow’s and the Troll Pub Under the Bridge. Familiar stops like Hard Rock Café and TGI Friday’s join the Maker’s Mark Bourbon House and Lounge and other locations at Fourth Street Live.

A few blocks to the east, the NULU (New Louisville) district boasts the Mayan Café, Harvest, Toast and, if you have a sweet tooth, Ghyslain on Market and Muth’s Candies. (Try a modjeska, a marshmallow, caramel concoction created in Louisville more than a century ago.)

Shop ‘til you drop

Relax on the waterfront
Looking for some down time? Louisville’s Waterfront Park is an 85-acre oasis leading from just north of Main Street down to the Ohio River. There’s always something going on at the park, but it’s a great place to kick back, relax and watch the water flow by. If you want some exercise, we suggest walking the Big Four Bridge, a popular walking path that starts at the east side of the park and crosses over the Ohio River.

And if you don’t mind driving a little...
You can get there from here. Within a 10 to 15-minute drive, you can find great restaurants, clubs and shopping in the Bardstown Road/Highlands or Frankfort Avenue areas, view the historic homes in Old Louisville or stroll through the University of Louisville’s beautiful Belknap Campus. And only a few minutes away is Louisville’s most famous landmark, Churchill Downs, and the award-winning Kentucky Derby Museum.

But don’t take our word for it
We’ve barely touched on all the things that make Louisville one of America’s top travel destinations. Check out everything the Derby City has to offer and make this trip more than just a “work trip” by visiting www.gotolouisville.com.
As president of UPS Airlines, Mitch Nichols oversees the operation of one of the world’s largest airlines including Worldport, the company’s state-of-the-art mega package processing facility and all-points international hub located in Louisville, Kentucky. In his role, Mitch is responsible for employee and airline safety and on-time arrivals of aircraft to meet customer commitments.

Before accepting his current assignment, Mitch served as vice president of Air Group Operations, where he took a balanced approach to safety excellence, cost management and growth investment. In 2009, under his leadership, UPS Airlines was named Cargo Airline of the Year by Air Transport World.

During his UPS career, Mitch has gained experience in a variety of assignments in the areas of Information Services, Strategic Operations Planning, Quality Assurance and package, hub and feeder operations.

He came to UPS as production manager with H Morrow Inc., a communications and navigation technology company. This UPS subsidiary created the Delivery Information Acquisition Device, or DIAD, the handheld digital device that customers sign when accepting a UPS delivery.

Before coming to UPS, Mitch taught at Oregon State University’s School of Engineering and worked in the private sector as a manufacturing engineering department head.

Mitch earned a bachelor’s degree in industrial arts from California State University, Chico and a master’s degree in industrial education from Oregon State University.

In step with UPS’s commitment to the community, Mitch serves on the board of trustees and committee on Quality and Clinical Services for Norton Healthcare, Kentucky’s largest health care provider and recipient of the National Quality Forum’s 2011 National Quality Health Care Award for its proactive and exemplary response to the national call for quality improvement and accountability. Mitch also serves on the board for Greater Louisville Inc., the area’s metro chamber of commerce and leading business organization.

Mitch is a member of the Transportation Council for the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. He has chaired many industry committees including Airlines 4 America’s Engineering, Maintenance and Materiel Council and A4A’s Joint Management Team, which is composed of senior industry leaders who meet to review rule making and policy issues. Mitch also chaired the editorial advisory board for Aviation Week & Space Technology’s MRO USA, an annual conference and exhibition for aircraft maintenance, repair and overhaul professionals.

His extensive professional and industry accomplishments over his 30+ year career have garnered him numerous honors. In 2008, A4A’s Engineering, Maintenance and Materiel Council honored Mitch with its Nuts & Bolts Award for more than 20 years of aviation leadership including having been the council’s longest standing chairman. In 2009, the School of Engineering at Oregon State University inducted him into its Academy of Distinguished Engineers for lifelong achievement and leadership in education, industry and community.
Barbara Holland, Ph.D., is a former professor and director of academic initiatives in social inclusion at the University of Sydney (Australia). She is a senior scholar in IUPUI’s Center for Service and Learning. An international scholar in organizational change and community engagement, she received the Research Achievement Award from the International Association of Research on Service-Learning and Community Engagement and currently serves as the chair of their Board.

Bill Samuels represents the 8th generation of his father’s family to own and operate a bourbon distillery in Kentucky. More important, he is the second generation to run the distillery his mother and father rejuvenated—a distillery that played a significant role in helping create the bourbon renaissance Kentucky distillers enjoy today. That distillery—Maker’s Mark—began as a retirement hobby for his father in 1953. The bourbon, and its traditional red wax cap, grew to be one of the most recognizable brands in the world. His presentation on Kentucky’s signature industry and how it came to be will be the complete Bourbon experience and will have guests taste testing a variety of KY bourbons!
